Bowman pledges support for city's innovation sector

Silicon Valley North?
Mayoral candidate says he's the best option for Winnipeg's burgeoning tech community

COLIN FAST
winnipeg@metronews.ca

Saying Winnipeg needs a mayor who understands the business community, Brian Bowman pledged his support for growing the city's innovation and technology community on Thursday.

"City hall has to do its part to make our creative sector truly thrive and in the long term to make Winnipeg the Silicon Valley of the North," he said during an announcement at AssentWorks on Adelaide Street.

AssentWorks is a non-profit fabrication lab that helps entrepreneurs and inventors create rapid prototypes of new products using technology such as 3D printers and laser engravers. It's part of a cluster of innovation firms housed along a stretch of Adelaide Street between McDermot and William.

Bowman promised to officially recognize the block as "Innovation Alley" and engage the creative sector to develop a streetscaping plan and give the area a unique identity. It would become the centre of his proposed "creative campus" in the West Exchange District.

He said the current city administration hasn't done enough to support Winnipeg's innovators — from basement tinkerers to large firms like Securix or the National Microbiology Lab — and pointed out that none of his mayoral opponents have discussed the topic or even visited AssentWorks.

One way he would stimulate innovation is to use crowd-sourcing to solve some of the city's problems. He suggested the city post challenges online and solicit feedback from the creative and technology sectors on possible solutions.

Sanders. Candidate says he's got the 'stones' needed to slay Winnipeg's deficit

Mayoral hopeful David Sanders says unless something changes at city hall, Winnipeg can expect to see a $100-million deficit in its 2015 operating budget.

At a news conference Thursday, Sanders called it "a Goliath of a problem," and said he's the David with the stones needed to slay it.

"I am the only mayoral candidate with the knowledge, training, experience, and the 'stones' to defeat that $100 million deficit and move this city forward," he said.

Sanders pointed to administrative reports in June that forecast a $22.4 million deficit in 2014 and advice from administration council received in December that said, without changes in tax rates or intergovernmental transfer payments, the projected deficit in 2015 would be $79 million, rising to $109 million in 2016.

Sanders said to solve the problem, he would introduce a property tax increase of up to five per cent, use reserve funds to cover this year's shortfall, make "specific reductions" in 2014's operating expenditures, and negotiate "vigorously" to increase federal and provincial operating and capital grants.

He'd also work with the public, interest groups, senior administration and council to conduct a broad review the administration's draft 2015 budgets to find savings.

Brian Hurst

Winnipeg man missing in Ontario found dead

Police have confirmed the death of a Winnipeg man who had gone missing in northwest Ontario. Foul play is not suspected.

Brian Hurst, 61, left the city headed toward Kenora on Sept. 27, but did not return. Winnipeg police then requested the public's assistance in locating Hurst.

A search undertaken by the OPP and Northwest Region emergency response team on Wednesday found Hurst's body along the shoreline of an unnamed lake near the area where his vehicle was found.

Police said an autopsy is pending. METRO

Suspect sought after sexual assault

Police are looking for a suspect after a woman was groped on the Slaw Rebchuk Bridge Tuesday.

The woman, 25, was crossing the bridge around 8:15 p.m. when a man approached asking for a cigarette. The woman said no and walked on, but the man kept up with her trying to engage in further conversation. The woman asked to be left alone and that's when the man groped her in the upper and lower body. The woman defended herself and the man fled.

The suspect is black, with a medium complexion, in his early 20s, five-foot-eight with a slim build.

JWL, Bowman policies very similar: Ouellette

Horse race. Candidate wants voters to look past polling numbers

shane.gibson@metronews.ca

Mayoral candidate Robert-Falcon Ouellette took direct aim at Judy Wasylycia-Leis and Brian Bowman Thursday, saying the frontrunners' policies on key issues such as rapid transit, taxes and infrastructure are too similar.

Ouellette said his policies on the issues offer a "clear contrast" from his two main competitors, and asked voters to look past recent poll numbers, which put him in fourth place in the race for the mayor's chair.

"If you are going to vote for someone because you think they are going to win, you should be sure they are going to do the things you want," he told media gathered for a press conference at his Provencher Boulevard campaign office.

"There is a public perception that Brian Bowman and Judy Wasylycia-Leis are at opposite ends ... of the political spectrum."

"But if we actually look at the policies, there's surprisingly little difference."

Ouellette said both Bowman and Wasylycia-Leis support bus rapid transit (BRT), but haven't said exactly how they will pay for it; they both have said they'd raise property taxes — a move Ouellette said would squeeze poor and middle-class families; and, he said, both have released inadequate plans for infrastructure.

To contrast his campaign against that of his competitors, Ouellette reiterated his plan to cancel BRT in favour of moving rail traffic out of the city so the empty lines can be used for light rail transit (LRT).

He also restated his pledge to use money from a land value tax to leverage $250 million in infrastructure work instead of raising property taxes.

Affordable housing

Robert-Falcon Ouellette has promised to raise the city's goal for new affordable housing to 3,200 units from 75.

• "As housing prices move higher and higher, young people, young families are asking themselves if the Winnipeg dream is also for them," the mayoral candidate said in a statement on Tuesday.

• Ouellette said he'd donate city land for affordable projects, use tax increment financing to help pay for them, waive city fees, identify pre-zoned land for mixed-use developments, and establish minimum mandatory requirements for affordable units in any new major development.

Freezing their assets off. Cold winter helps throw off gambling revenues

The Manitoba government's predictions for gambling revenues were off last year by 20 per cent, or $67.9 million.

The net income for Manitoba Lotteries for the 2013-14 fiscal year was $278 million — below the $346 million originally forecast in the budget.

The biggest factor, says a spokeswoman for the Crown corporation, was a delay in distributing new video lottery machines, which the province had hoped would provide a big boost in revenue.

"There were delays experienced in the rollout, which is not unusual in a project of this complexity. For example, we procured machines from three different suppliers," Susan Olynik wrote in an email Wednesday.

One of the coldest winters on record also played a role. Fewer people ventured out for entertainment, so revenues were lower than expected at video lottery terminals across the province and at the corporation's two casinos in Winnipeg.

Jackpot?

Spokeswoman Susan Olynik said financial results this fiscal year have turned around.

- A report covering the three months that ended June 30 shows revenues up $6 million from the same period a year ago.

Lottery ticket sales were down about $100,000 from the previous year. Olynik said that was because there were fewer big jackpots.

"When we have a number of large jackpot winners in the province, the publicity around those wins tends to drive lottery sales up."

Like other provinces, Manitoba has faced increasing competition from online gambling sites based in other countries. The province launched its own regulated site last year and admitted it had some catching up to do. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Public opinion

NDP still hurting, but Tories not benefitting: Poll

A new opinion poll suggests continuing troubles for Manitoba's NDP government and a possible plateau for the Opposition Progressive Conservatives.

The Probe Research poll, done for the Winnipeg Free Press and CTV, suggests the Tories lead with the support of 42 per cent of decided voters.

That number is down slightly from similar Probe polls done three and six months ago.

The New Democrats scored 30 per cent support among decided voters, demonstrating little change in recent months.

The Liberals, who got just seven per cent of the vote in the 2011 election, were supported by 20 per cent in the new poll, up from 16 per cent in the last survey.

The NDP is showing strength in Winnipeg — home to 31 of the 57 legislature seats — where the survey suggests they are in a statistical tie with the Tories.

The random telephone survey involved 1,009 residents between Sept. 18 and Oct. 1. The provincewide results are considered accurate within plus or minus 3.1 percentage points, 19 times out of 20. The margin of error for the Winnipeg results is plus or minus four per cent.

The NDP government has taken a beating in the polls since raising the provincial sales tax in 2013. However, the Tories do not seem to be benefitting. The new survey suggests they are no further ahead now than they were on election day.

A prize-winning throat singer says she was sexually harassed and called "a sexy little Indian" while in the Manitoba capital recently.

Tanya Tagaq was in the city performing with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet in Going Home Star — Truth and Reconciliation, a production about the legacy of Indian residential schools.

"I was in Winnipeg for the ballet, walking to lunch, when a man started following me calling me a 'sexy little Indian,'" Tagaq said on her Twitter account, adding that he crudely propositioned her.

Using the hashtag MMIW for missing and murdered indigenous women, Tagaq said the harassment was "creepy and scary."

"It happens when we are alone," she wrote. "In the day or night."

Tagaq's record label said the Inuk singer wasn't available to comment Thursday.

The encounter resonates in Winnipeg, where many are angry over the killing of 15-year-old Tina Fontaine, whose body was pulled from the Red River in August.

Tagaq has talked openly about fear among aboriginal women and that her daughters are four times more likely to be murdered than a non-aboriginal woman.

The Inuk singer recently won the Polaris Music Prize after a performance that featured the names of some of Canada's 1,200 missing and murdered aboriginal women.

She later lamented that her statement was overshadowed by her speech, in which she took aim at animal-welfare group PETA for opposing the Inuit seal hunt.

"I had a scrolling screen of 1,200 missing and murdered indigenous women at the Polaris gala, but people are losing their minds over seals," she tweeted last month.

Winnipeg police say Fotti

His status was revoked when Fotti was convicted of tampering with U.S. government records in 2008.

FOR YOUR HEALTH

ASK THE Denturist

How often should dentures be replaced?

Dentures should be replaced approximately every 5 years, says Hartley Zelcer of Zelcer Denture Clinic. Natural teeth can wear down and stain through time and so do your dentures. Tissue in your mouth goes through constant changes attributed to aging, weight loss, medications, stress and various other factors. Symptoms such as ringing in the ears, ear aches, headaches, jaw pain and dizzy spells may all be denture related. Dentures should enhance ones face by reducing and softening lines and in many cases can make one look years younger.

The Zelcers reputation has made them one of the most recognized and trusted clinics in the province.

Six U.S. military planes arrived Thursday at the epicentre of the Ebola crisis, carrying more aid and American Marines

The World Health Organization says it is finalizing the paperwork to take possession of 800 or so vials of an experimental Ebola vaccine donated by the Canadian government.

A WHO official says the legal agreement required for the global health agency to accept the vaccine is almost done and the vaccine should be shipped next week.

Dr. Marie-Paule Kieny says researchers who will conduct clinical trials of the vaccine in Europe and Africa should be submitting their proposals to their regulatory agencies next week, which means they will soon need the vaccine.

'Evil virus.' West African presidents make urgent pleas for money, doctors

The presidents of three Ebola-stricken West African nations made urgent pleas for money, doctors and hospital beds Thursday — and representatives of nations gathered for financial meetings promised more help.

President Ernest Bai Koroma described devastating effects of "this evil virus."

Koroma spoke by video from Sierra Leone to an Ebola summit, along with President Alpha Conde of Guinea, and President Ellen Johnson Sirleaf of Liberia, also appearing by video-conference.

More than 370 health care workers have been sickened or killed by the virus in Liberia, Guinea and Sierra Leone.

The U.S. military is building a hospital in Liberia for infected medical personnel, expected to be finished by the end of the month.

The UN and individual countries are sending money and aid, including troops coming from Britain and the United States to build treatment centres.

President Ernest Bai Koroma said more help is urgently needed, requesting more than 5,000 doctors, nurses and medical support staff and 1,500 patient beds for Sierra Leone.

United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon called for a 20-fold surge in international aid to fight the outbreak.

"For those who have yet to pledge, I say please do so soon," Ban said.

Legalize pot, says CAMH; increase enforcement, says Peter MacKay

Marijuana. Liberals, NDP applaud position from Canada's largest mental health research centre; feds aim to 'increase enforcement'

The Harper government's resolve to enforce laws against marijuana is unshaken by a call to legalize pot from the country's largest mental health and addiction treatment centre.

Justice Minister Peter MacKay said Thursday the Conservative government has no intention of heeding the call of the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health.

Indeed, the government remains committed to going in the opposite direction, said MacKay: finding ways to actually increase enforcement of marijuana laws, including pot-the Tories are ideologically bound to a failed war on drugs.

Policy statement

In a policy statement released Thursday, CAMH said cannabis should be legalized and strictly regulated, sold through a government-controlled monopoly with limited availability and an age limit. The centre concluded that the current legal prohibition on pot has failed to prevent use or reduce the harm it can cause.

- Federal position. Justice Minister Peter MacKay reacted saying that the Federal government continues to consider "methods in which we can increase enforcement," including the ticketing option favoured by chiefs of police. "We do not intend to legalize or decriminalize," said MacKay.

Magnotta trial. Autopsy on dismembered body was difficult to perform, says forensic pathologist

The jury in Luka Rocco Magnotta's first-degree murder trial has begun hearing the testimony of the forensic pathologist who performed the autopsy on the remains of Chinese student Jun Lin.

Yann Daze says the task was difficult given the body was dismembered and the autopsy had to be conducted over five non-consecutive days.

Daze testified that police initially found most of the body in advanced decomposition in the trash behind Magnotta's Montreal apartment building but that the head, feet and hands were missing.

The pathologist also examined tools found in the trash believed to have been used in the slaying, including a knife, a screwdriver, a hammer, a small electric saw and scissors.

The 32-year-old Magnotta has pleaded not guilty to five charges in Lin's slaying in late May 2012, as well as publishing a so-called murder video online.

Daze says he didn't view the video because he knew it was connected to the case and he didn't want to taint his own findings.

He testified Thursday he didn't have any interest in watching the video in any case.

"Frankly, I see enough disgusting things in my line of work, I didn't need to see any more," he told the jury.

Daze explained that conducting an autopsy over five separate days was difficult because pathologists usually do them over consecutive days and know what they are looking for from the start.

When he began the task on June 1, 2012, Daze said he had the majority of the body. Police had found a torso, cut at the neck, shoulders and thighs in a suitcase, as well as arms and legs in the trash.

Not guilty

Mountie who watched inmates have sex acquitted

A Mountie who watched two female inmates have sex in a jail cell in Kamloops, B.C., has been found not guilty of breach of trust by a public officer, but it will likely be months before he learns if he can return to work.

Cpl. Rick Brown was the watch commander on duty in August 2010 when he and other RCMP officers and at least one jail guard viewed the women's sex acts on a closed-circuit monitor.

B.C. Supreme Court Justice Selwyn Romilly ruled Thursday that Brown was not out of line in watching the women have sex and prisoners should not expect privacy while behind bars.

Romilly called the case "one of the most bizarre" he'd seen as a judge and was skeptical about whether it should have even proceeded. Brown said he's still digesting the decision.

"I'll probably just take the weekend to unwind," he said.

When Joanne Hughes was growing up in Fredericton, N.B., playing hockey wasn't an option.

She played plenty of sports, and "all the girls figure-skated," but there weren't any female hockey teams.

Now you might run into Hughes in any given rink across the country or around the world, always with a friendly smile on her face, whether she's watching a minor hockey game alongside parents or watching Canada's National Women's Team in action.

The female council chair for Hockey Canada's board of directors, who now lives in Cole Harbour, N.S., will be out and about at arenas over the next few days for World Girls' Hockey Weekend, which takes place Oct. 10-12 in partnership with the International Ice Hockey Federation. "We will have 15,000 players doing events all the way across the country, 6,000 in Ontario alone," Hughes said of the fourth annual event, meant to get more girls and women involved in a historically male-dominated sport, whether as players, fans, or like Hughes, as volunteers.

Activities include free Esso Fun Days to give females new to the game a chance to try it out, skills sessions for more experienced players, coaching and officiating clinics, as well as the second annual Long Game on Saturday, with the puck drop at 9:30 a.m. in Stephenville, N.L., and the final faceoff at 7 p.m. in Whitehorse, Yukon. More than 2,000 female players on 98 different teams will play in five continuous games at the atom, peewee, bantam, midget and senior levels. Over the past decade, female registration has climbed from 60,000 to 86,612 last season.

India-Pakistan border fight leaves villagers terrified

In the crossfire.

Frightened people on both sides say they are fed up with the cycle of violence

Troops trading heavy fire between Pakistan and Indian-controlled Kashmir have plunged civilians on both sides into grief with 18 villagers killed and dozens wounded this week, prompting many to question how two nations committed to a 2003 ceasefire could be targeting civilians while trading blame about who started shooting first.

Iram Shazadi was making breakfast for her family Monday when bullets started whizzing through her dusty Pakistani village of Dhamala Hakimwala — about half a kilometre from the border with the Indian-administered portion of the disputed Himalayan region.

A mortar shell fired by Indian border forces slammed into her home and killed her mother-in-law and two sons, aged five and eight.

"I lost my whole world," the injured 30-year-old said Wednesday at a military hospital in Sialkot. She sat crying

Seeking peace

Panicked villagers on both sides said they were desperate for peace.

- "I have been seeing these clashes since my childhood" said 35-year-old Rehmat Bibi in Dhamala Hakimwala, where homes are now pockmarked by bullet holes and streets are largely deserted. "We are living in a state of fear."

- The clashes come despite stated desires by both governments on improving ties. Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi said he wanted to engage Pakistan and even invited its prime minister, Nawaz Sharif, to attend his inauguration in May.

next to her six-year-old son, who narrowly escaped the blast.

On the Indian side, farmer Gulshan Kumar spent Tuesday night huddled with his family while mortars from Pakistan fell on his village of Chilyari.

"A shell landed in our neighbour's home, killing a 70-year-old woman and her 32-year-old daughter-in-law," Kumar told reporters.

The fighting over the past four nights marks the worst violation of the 2003 ceasefire accord brokered between India and Pakistan after several years of almost-day border battles, officials on both sides say.

While minor skirmishes have been somewhat common over the years, many were shocked that this week's fighting fell over the Muslim holiday of Eid al-Adha and left civilian casualties — nine in Pakistan and nine in India. The tally includes two women killed early Thursday after fresh fighting erupted overnight, according to Press Trust of India.

Tens of thousands of villagers have fled their homes on both sides since Sunday night, when the violence first erupted along the 200-kilometre border between Pakistan's Punjab province and the Indian-controlled portion of Kashmir.

On Thursday, people light candles in Augustplatz square in Leipzig during commemorations marking the 25th anniversary of the mass protests there that preceded the fall of the communist government of East Germany. On Oct. 9, 1989, following weeks of protests that had resulted in beatings and arrests by police, 70,000 protesters demanding greater freedom marched unopposed through the city in a historic event that signalled the beginning of the end of the communist government's authority. A rare Siberian tiger released into the wild by Russian President Vladimir Putin has strayed into China and may be in danger, Chinese media said Thursday.

Russia informed Chinese forestry officials that the tiger, tagged with a tracking device, was observed in a nature preserve in northeastern China's Heilongjiang province.

Officials were removing possible traps and setting up more than 60 cameras in hopes of locating the tiger. The Russian president was photographed in May releasing the 19-month-old cub, named Kuzya, and two other Siberian tigers in a remote part of the Amur region.

Off-duty cop fires 17 rounds, kills black teen in St. Louis

Truth in the middle?

Police chief says 'aggressive' teen shot first; friends and family he was not armed, despite evidence to the contrary

An off-duty cop fatally shot an 18-year-old man who opened fire during a chase in south St. Louis, sparking loud protests in the area, police said Thursday.

St. Louis Police Chief Col. Sam Dotson said the 32-year-old officer was patrolling the neighbourhood for a private security company late Wednesday when the shooting happened.

The officer said three men in the street ran away when they spotted him, Dotson told reporters at a news conference early Thursday. The way that one of the men ran — grabbing at his waistband, slightly lopsided — indicated that he was carrying a weapon, so the officer chased him, Dotson said.

The man approached the officer in an aggressive way, an altercation ensued and the man fired at the officer, the police chief said. The officer returned fire and killed him.

Ballistic evidence recovered from the scene indicates that the man fired three rounds at the officer before his weapon jammed, Dotson said, adding that the gun was also recovered.

The officer fired 17 shots, Dotson said. He said he didn't know how many of those shots hit the suspect or why the officer fired that many shots. The officer was not injured.

"An investigation will decide if the officer's behaviour was appropriate," he said.

People who described themselves as relatives of the dead man told the St. Louis Post Dispatch that he was not armed.

Dotson described the officer as a six-year veteran of the St.

Louis Police Department, and said the man who was killed was 18 years old and black.

Neither man was named.

Hours after the shooting, a crowd gathered at the scene near the Missouri Botanical Garden. Some shouted "Hands up, don't shoot" in reference to the fatal shooting in August of an unarmed black man, Michael Brown, by a white police officer in nearby Ferguson.

That shooting led to weeks of sometimes violent unrest in the St. Louis suburb. Officer Darren Wilson has not been charged.

Dotson said some in the crowd Wednesday night shouted obscenities at officers and damaged police cars, but that the officers "showed great restraint."

No demonstrators were arrested and by 1 a.m. Thursday the crowd had largely dispersed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite mix-up, gay couples can get hitched in Vegas

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy mistakenly blocked the start of same-sex marriage in Nevada, confusing state officials and disappointing couples hoping to be wed.

Court spokeswoman Kathy Arberg confirmed the mix-up Thursday, saying Kennedy's order was an error he corrected with a second order hours later.

By that time, Nevada officials decided to hold off on issuing marriage licences to same-sex couples until the legal situation was settled.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco declared bans on same-sex marriage in Idaho and Nevada illegal on Tuesday, joining a rapidly growing number of states allowing gay marriages.

Idaho quickly asked the Supreme Court for a delay, while Nevada planned to allow same-sex weddings to proceed.

The trouble arose because Idaho's request to the court included a document from the appeals court that listed case numbers for both states.

The Supreme Court received the request around 8:30 a.m. on Wednesday and Kennedy issued his order about 80 minutes later.

Upon being questioned by reporters, Kennedy issued a new order lifting the hold in Nevada, but left Idaho's in place until 5 p.m. Thursday, pending arguments from those for and against ending the delay presenting their positions on why same-sex marriage licences should or shouldn't be available in Idaho. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winnipeg's Muscles by Meyers is Canada's longest serving Sports Supplement retailer. We offer numerous competitively priced Nutritional Supplements and Natural Health Products.

Protein - Protein Powders

Protein is one of the three major nutrients. Unlike carbohydrates and fats, proteins are comprised of nitrogen-containing groups called amino acids. There are about 20 different types of amino acids commonly found in foods. All of them are important for building and maintaining muscle, but 8 are vital. These are what are known as the Essential Amino Acids (EAAs).

Protein - Fast Acting Proteins - Whey protein is derived from milk which is fast acting. It has been a famous dietary supplement especially for athletes because it contains numerous components that make it far better than other protein sources.

Protein - Blends - Blended protein powders are made up of any number of different protein sources, such as any type of whey protein (isolates, concentrates, peptides, etc), milk protein isolates, casein, and egg protein. The benefit to blended protein powders are that by using one, you are receiving a wide variety of amino acid sources.

Protein - Slow Release - Casein protein is the predominant protein found in milk. It makes up about 80% of the protein in cow's milk, while the remaining 20% of protein in milk is whey. Casein protein has an excellent amino acid profile and is primarily known as an extremely slow-digesting protein because it forms a "gel" in the gut, which results in a steady release of amino acids into the blood stream over time.

Protein - Alternative - Alternative protein sources can be a good choice for individuals who want to limit or eliminate the use of animal or milk-based proteins in their diet. Alternative protein sources can consist of non-animal-based proteins such as soy, rice, hemp; However, we can also consider egg or beef protein powders as alternative sources, since they are not derived from milk. Vegans and vegetarians can benefit from consuming some of these proteins, due to their excellent amino acid profiles, and unique tastes.

EI premiums exploited for federal surpluses, not the needy: Watchdog

Ottawa. Parliamentary budget officer also says that reducing EI premiums for small businesses will have negative consequences

The federal government's handling of employment insurance will reduce job creation by 9,000 jobs over the next two years and compel Canadians to pay $4.5 billion more in EI premiums than needed, the parliamentary budget officer (PBO) says.

In an analysis of Finance Minister Joe Oliver's recent decision to freeze EI premiums at a rate higher than needed for the EI account to break even, the PBO says the move will contribute significant extra revenues to Ottawa's plan to run budget surpluses in the next few years.

Finance Minister Joe Oliver ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

After years of budget deficits, Oliver will be in a position to record budget surpluses starting next year.

Instead of using extra EI revenues to balance the federal government's books, Ottawa could use the funds to make EI payments avail-

Small businesses

The PBO also says the new jobs resulting from the small business EI reduction will be more than offset by the impact of keeping overall EI premium rates higher than needed for the EI account to break even. This approach will reduce the ranks of the employed by 10,000 over the next two years, the analysis said.

able to a higher proportion of jobless Canadians, the PBO says.

Because of the increase in part-time jobs that don't qualify for EI and an increase the number of long-term unemployed, only 38 per cent of unemployed workers are receiving EI payments, the report notes.

The study also takes aim at Oliver's recent decision to reduce EI premiums for small businesses, which will cost Ottawa $550 million over two years.

The PBO estimates this move will add only 800 net new jobs in the economy between now and 2016, which means the jobs are being created at an average cost of $550,000 per person-year.

This is a sharp contrast to Oliver's prediction of the impact of the EI cuts for small business.

He cited a report saying the move would produce thousands of new jobs during the next few years.

Also, the PBO said the impact on job creation or job losses of current federal EI policies will even out over the long term because of the government's commitment to adjust EI premium rates after 2016 so that the EI fund will operate on a break-even basis.

WikiWash contributors from Metro News, The Working Group, The Center for Investigative Reporting and Google at the WikiWash launch Thursday evening. JESSICA SMITH CROSS/METRO TORONTO

WikiWash targets transparency in Wikipedia entries

Tracking changes. Metro and industry partners came up with project to shine light on wiki edits, enhance journalism

JESSICA SMITH CROSS
Metro in Toronto

Call it the spin cycle: powerful people and groups using Wikipedia for PR, entering the most flattering information and hiding controversies, despite the best efforts of the site's army of editors.

One part of the solution is a new tool called WikiWash, and it went live on Thursday evening. Metro News, The Working Group (TWG), the Center for Investigative Reporting (CIR) and Google launched WikiWash with a party at TWG's headquarters in Toronto.

The idea was spawned by a group of journalists from Metro News at the TechRaking Toronto conference hosted by CIR, The Canadian Press and Google Canada in March.

The idea won the competition, in which participants were asked to come up with technical solutions to data-journalism problems. Part of the solution to the spin cycle is improving transparency.

The talented minds at TWG, a web and mobile-app developer that also has an office in New York, created WikiWash from Metro's idea, and the result is a free tool available at wikiwash.metronews.ca. Enter a Wikipedia page, and WikiWash shows you its most recent edits, which users can see in real time, while a downloadable database shows who made edits and when.

Chris Eben, managing partner of The Working Group, said WikiWash and tools like it are meaningful for journalism.

"The future of news depends on organizations having the skills to develop new tools and technologies that support journalists in their pursuit of stories," he said.

Joaquin Alvarado, CIR's CEO, agreed: "Journalism has more to gain from technological innovation and deep community engagement than any other sector in the media," he said. "WikiWash captures the essence of designing around a need not yet being met, as well as the opportunity to engage the local community in improving journalism."

Multicultural schools in Israel focus on building a better future for all

Initiative. Hand in Hand co-founder Lee Gordon is working to promote peace through diversity in the classroom

For Metro Canada

With five schools and 1,200 students across Israel, educational organization Hand in Hand has one ambition — to foster peaceful multiculturalism in Israeli society, starting with kids in kindergarten.

"The goal of Hand in Hand is to create a viable model for shared living in Israeli society," says Lee Gordon, executive director for the American Friends of Hand in Hand. He was in Toronto at the beginning of October to drum up funding for the organization.

"Twenty per cent of Israeli citizens are also Palestinian Arabs," says Gordon. "There's a big divide between Jews and Arabs inside of Israel. It's a segregated society — partly because of the conflict, partly because of language, and partly be-

Influencing young minds

"Fear, anger and violence are undermining shared living. But this is not the case at Hand in Hand. Our preschools, summer programs and community activity continue unabated in our five schools and communities. As we begin the 2014-15 school year, and as our network of bilingual schools and communities expands, so does our message to Israeli society: There is another way."

Hand In Hand, handinhandk12.org

cause there is an Arab public school system and a Jewish public school system."

Gordon, whose background is in social work and educational leadership, lived and worked in Israel for more than 20 years. He saw that the segregated way of life — specifically, the segregated school system — was a serious impediment to building a trusting, collaborative society in Israel. That's what inspired him to co-found Hand in Hand with an Arab colleague, Amin Khalaf, in 1997.

"We decided one way we could really make an impact would be to create a new model of schooling, in which Jewish and Arab children go to school together on a daily basis, year after year," he says. "If you disagree and don't have any common ground, it's hard to solve conflict. If you disagree but have the common ground of attending school together, becoming friends, writing the same exams, you have a human bond." That, he says, makes resolving conflict easier.

The concept was sound, but actually making it happen took months of research and planning. The first schools didn't open until the fall of 1998.

"We started with 50 children in two locations," he says, "a kindergarten class in Jerusalem and a first-grade class in Northern Israel."

Each class is split down the middle: half of the students are Jewish Israeli, the other half, Arab Israeli. There are two teachers, and the instructional time is also split. Students learn half of their lessons in Hebrew and half in Arabic. Since 1998, the organization has grown significantly, with 1,200 students now spread among five schools across Israel. The first class graduated from high school in 2011.

At Hand in Hand schools, the learning opportunities aren't restricted to students in classrooms. In an effort to encourage the atmosphere of collaboration, parents are encouraged to attend school programs and cultural celebrations.

It's all part of the larger goal, says Gordon.

"We want to be a social phenomenon in Israel," he says.

"You can have a diplomatic solution, but unless you have a grassroots, people-to-people partnership as the foundation, peace won't stand. We're part of that grassroots effort."

Pop go the Pepsi and Coke sales in Mexico

Going flat? A new tax in Mexico has hit the top pop companies

No wonder Coke and Pepsi are spending millions of dollars to fight proposed taxes on sugary drinks in California.

PepsiCo reported a higher quarterly profit Thursday as global sales rose, but one weak spot was Mexico. The company said snack sales volume declined by three per cent, hurt by a new tax on junk foods.

Recent declines suffered by Pepsi and Coke in Mexico underscore why the beverage industry is fighting tax proposals on sugary drinks in San Francisco and nearby Berkeley, Calif.

Coca-Cola, which reports its third quarter results Oct. 21, has also reported beverage volume declines in Mexico for the first half of the year, citing a similar tax on drinks. Mexico has the world's highest per capita consumption of Coca-Cola drinks.

Hugh Johnston, chief financial officer for PepsiCo, said in a phone interview that declines in Mexico were in line with what the company expected. To mitigate the impact of the tax, he said PepsiCo plans to target different package sizes for different outlets. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mystery. Appetite for answers about artificial, natural food flavour labels

They help give Coke its distinctive bite and Doritos a cheesy kick. But the artificial and natural flavours used to rev up the taste of processed foods remain a mystery to most Americans.

"Artificial and natural flavours" have become ubiquitous terms on food labels, helping create vivid tastes that would otherwise be lost in mass production. As the science behind them advances, however, some are calling for greater transparency about their safety and ingredients.

Last month, five consumer and environmental groups sent a letter to the Food and Drug Administration in the U.S. expressing their concern about the flavour industry, which determines the safety of its own ingredients. The letter noted that safety is sometimes declared based on scientific data that isn't publicly available.

"If we're eating the

Unfounded fears?

The call for more transparency comes as Americans pay closer attention to what they eat.

- Many food scientists say the fears are unfounded because the unfamiliar ingredients often just mimic chemical structures found in nature or are used in trace amounts.
- But complaints have prompted companies including PepsiCo and Subway to reformulate recipes.

Most Canadians will be armed with their smartphones while shopping this holiday season and likely won't pull the trigger on purchases without launching a few quick searches first, suggests new research released Thursday.

In an online survey of nearly 1,000 Canadians conducted last month, a majority of consumers said they planned to rely on their digital devices while shopping even more than they did last year, according to a report prepared by Tapped Mobile, App Promo and BrandSpark International.

About 72 per cent of moms aged 25 to 54; 77 per cent of male consumers aged 25 to 54; and 79 per cent of young consumers aged 18 to 29 said they already use a smartphone or tablet as a shopping tool in stores.

The respondents said they most frequently pulled out their phone to compare prices, to search for coupons, or look up product reviews.

DR. DEATH, NICKELBACK & TOMMY THE CHIMP

On the eve of the Thanksgiving long weekend, we're here to give thanks for the Metro List, your guide to the newsiest news of the week.

1 Tried, Tested and True. Sounds better than "ineffective and out of date." We're talking about the six CF18s that Ottawa is sending to the Middle East to help stamp out the latest terrorist threat. The first CF18 Hornet was delivered in 1982, so this is the defence equivalent of sending a 32-year-old Oldsmobile to war. One last assignment on the way to the recycling depot.

2 The Last Trip to The Vet. A poll released this week shows that 84 per cent of Canadians favour physician-assisted suicide, as an alternative to a slow, painful "natural" date with Dr. Death. It sounds good on paper, but this is Canada, where you have to wait up to two years to have a hip replaced.

THE METRO LIST
Paul Sullivan

The chances of expiring before you get an appointment are too real.

3 Mea Culpa. Speaking of real, Pope Francis is encouraging his cardinals and theologians to get real and figure out what to do about the millions of Catholics who ignore the Church's rules on birth control, sex outside of marriage, divorce, and all that stuff you go to confession for. They can't just mass-excommunicate them, or there would be no one left in the pews on Sundays.

4 The Good Old Hockey Game, and Then Some. The puck dropped on the NHL regular season this week and millions of fans said goodbye to their families and descended into the "media room", not scheduled to emerge until June. This year, Rogers brings the full weight of its media empire to the table, with plans to broadcast 553 regular season games plus all the playoffs. We're talking all hockey, all the time. Imagine what happens if more than one Canadian team makes the playoffs; imagine a Canadian team competing in the Stanley Cup final; imagine two Canadian teams... it's easy if you try.

5 Will It Work on Justin Bieber, too? Some guy in London, England is trying to put together a crowd-funding campaign to keep Nickelback away from the UK capital. By going to #Don'tnickelback and pledging between $1 and $50, fans of actual music can keep London Nickelback-free. $50, for example will get the guy to send Chad Kroeger an MP3 of his own music. "This way, the band will hear their own music, and likely retire immediately, thereby ensuring the success of our campaign," the website reads. Undeterred, Nickelback releases its eighth studio album in November.

6 Thanks, But No Thanks. In an Albany, N.Y., trailer park, Tommy the chimp, a 26-year-old veteran of the entertainment biz, watches TV and waits to find out of a court will grant him human rights. Ultimately, that will give him the right to go live with other chimps in a Florida wildlife sanctuary. While Tommy might prefer Florida to an upstate New York winter, does he have to change species to do it?

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Scan this photo using your Metro News app to see a clip of Robert Downey Jr. swagger around as a criminal defence lawyer in The Judge. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Robert Downey Jr. is Hank Palmer, a hotshot defence lawyer who's been estranged from his father Judge Joseph Palmer (Robert Duvall) for years but is forced to see him when his mother passes away. Returning to his hometown of Carlinville, Ind., for the funeral, Hank must confront the life he left behind — ex-girlfriend Samantha (Vera Farmiga), brothers Glen (Vincent D'Onofrio) and Dale (Jeremy Strong) and his cold-fish father. The quick in-and-out trip is extended, however, when the judge is accused of murder and Hank becomes his lawyer.

- Mark: ●●●●●

Old-fashioned drama.

Robert Downey Jr. heads up an impressive cast that delivers a solid, if not too original, film

Richard: Mark, The Judge feels like Oscar bait. It's a long movie with a wide story arc that gives its leads ample opportunity to strut their stuff. Downey hands in a solid, if somewhat familiar, performance while Duvall plays elder statesman, resurrecting the alpha male feel of The Great Santini. Both are used to good effect and the supporting cast keeps things humming along despite a story that pushes credulity to the limit. What's your verdict? Were you won over by the performances despite plot holes so big not even Iron Man could fill them?

Mark: Richard, The Judge is a sprawling, square, old-fashioned movie and I loved it in spite of itself. It's a pleasure to watch Downey act without a fifth of a billion bucks in CGI helping him out. The movie reminds us why we fell in love with him so long ago. His perfect wiseass line readings and adolescent smirk hide the softie underneath, and it's great to watch the transition slowly unfold. As for Duvall, how can you go wrong? He's not just an actor now, he's everyone's granddad. The acting in the movie is pretty flawless, and I'm including Vincent D'Onofrio and Vera Farmiga here as well.

RC: The acting is very good. It's the story, or should I say stories, that bogged me down. It's the hardest working movie in show business. It's a film that wants to check all the boxes. It's a family drama! No! It's a romance! Nope! It's a courtroom thriller! It's all those things, and, for me, less because it spreads the focus too thin by trying just a little too hard. Downey and Co. float above it all, however, touching down now and again to introduce a new plot twist and deliver the occasional touching moment.

MB: You're right; it's all those things. And one more: It's a John Mellencamp song. You see, he was born in a small town ... Richard, let's not forget the cliché of the big city slicker who finds out his roots are where his heart belongs. In spite of that, in spite of everything you so correctly enumerate, I still loved the movie. And although I had a pretty good idea how the thriller part was going to turn out, I was engaged to see how it would get there.

RC: Most of the silly stuff that bothered me comes in the form of clues Hank pieces together while forming the judge's defence and the trial itself. There will be no spoilers here, but suffice it to say the whole thing hinges on a bit of information so implausible that it gives new meaning to the term suspension of disbelief. Trouble is, it didn't have to be that way. There were any number of ways to establish the point in question (OK, here's a mild spoiler alert: It involves chemotherapy and a cottage) without trying so hard, but that's not the kind of film this is.

MB: But it is the kind of movie where the prosecuting attorney (Billy Bob Thornton) is given a Snidely Whiplash moustache just to make sure we all know he's the bad guy. Doesn't matter. Still loved the movie.

Kill the Messenger.

Actor brings to life true story of journalist who alleged a link between the CIA and crack cocaine in L.A.

MATT PRIGGE

Metro World News in New York

Jeremy Renner didn't know why Kill the Messenger had to be a movie until he was half-way through it. It tells of Gary Webb, a journalist at the tiny San Jose Mercury News who broke a story alleging a link between the CIA and the sudden appearance of crack cocaine in parts of Los Angeles. What finally got Renner on board was the aftermath, when Webb was hounded for his piece to the point where his career was destroyed. In 2004 Webb was found dead of an apparent suicide.

"It was a movie I wanted to do," Renner recalls. "Then it was a movie I had to do."

Still, he found his take on the film evolving as production of the film, his first as a producer, went on. "Before it was about Gary Webb and his plight. I love the David and Goliath story, the everyman in extraordinary circumstances," he says. "Ultimately it became a commentary on where we are today. I wouldn't have known two years ago when we were doing this that whistle-blowing would be such a popular topic right now."

But it was more than that. It also touched on newspapers. "Good journalism is not popular. People don't care about good writing and good investigative reporting. They care about nude celebrity leaked photos. And that's sad," he says. "You can't blame the media, even though I do. They do exacerbate the fire that's already started. But it's people who want to see this stuff."

Playing a journalist meant he had to learn about it. "That was a new thing for me to think about, being on that side of it, rather than having hatred towards it," he says. Indeed, Renner has been hounded by a number of rumours about his personal life, which he tirelessly insists are erroneous. He con-

Quoted

"Good journalism is not popular. People don't care about good writing and good investigative reporting. They care about nude celebrity leaked photos."

Jeremy Renner

sulted with Kill the Messenger screenwriter Peter Landesman and his The Hurt Locker author Mark Boal, both former investigative reporters. But he was also concerned with how journalism would look onscreen.

"No one wants to see Gary Webb researching. That's just not fun," Renner explains. "So we had him talk about his research with his editor."

Acting can be a form of journalism, especially if you're playing a real person. He says he didn't meet with Webb's family until he had done his own research into Webb as a person.

"He was tenacious and self-righteous and stubborn. Those are attributes but they're also flaws," he says. "That's what I love about Gary Webb: He's unapologetically flawed, and that's what makes him heroic. He accepted all those things about himself."

Without that drive, Renner says, Webb might never have pushed to get these allegations out in the open.

Kill the Messenger exists chiefly because Renner's name is familiar to the globe's moviegoers; in fact, he read the script while shooting Marvel's The Avengers.

Renner has that series, plus Mission: Impossible and the Bourne series (though Matt Damon has since reclaimed his role in the franchise).

"Doing Avengers movies lets me do Kill the Messenger," he explains. "We do those, then we get to make this movie that no one seemingly wants to make, because it's not easy. No one's throwing money at Kill the Messenger."

It's easy to forget — in part because the movie was forgotten almost as soon as it was released — but Renner got his start in no less than 1995's National Lampoon's Senior Trip, in which he played one of the misbehaving, slacker teens.

"That was my first job ever as an actor on film," he says. "I don't like to bash something that meant so much to me at the time. It's a crap movie, but it was a huge thing for me. It gave me a lot of confidence."

It also introduced him to costar Tommy Chong. Asked what he's like, he says, "Pretty much what you'd think. I remember some guitar streaming from his trailer, as well as some smoke."

It wasn't, he recalls, herbal.

Kingpin. Michael K. Williams talks about researching drug lord role

Michael K. Williams made his name with The Wire's Omar Little, the charismatic gangster who made drug lords' lives hell. Since then, he's made sure to keep doing films that touch on important subjects, taking roles in films as diverse as 12 Years a Slave and The Purge: Anarchy, in which he played a rebel leader seeking to help the targeted downtrodden. He does the same in the docudrama Kill the Messenger, playing real-life drug kingpin Ricky Ross, who in the 1990s was instrumental in helping journalist Gary Webb (Jeremy Renner) shed light on alleged CIA involvement in shipping crack cocaine into low-income African American neighbourhoods.

Had you ever heard this story before you got the script?

Never. I was really outraged at the fact that I was that dumb. My neighbourhood was going through its own scandal. My neighbourhood was being bombarded with crack cocaine at the same time. I didn't have time to worry about what was going on in L.A. And let's face it: We don't grow cocoa leaves in South Central L.A. or East Flatbush, Brooklyn. It's coming from somewhere.

How did you prepare?

I got in contact with Rick. I consider him a friend today. He gave me a ton of homework to do. It becomes apparent in the film he's more of a pawn in the situation. He was a fall guy — allegedly.

He comes across as not just another evil drug lord but as sympathetic.

That was very important that came across (that way). (Director Michael Cuesta) supported me in wanting to make sure his voice was heard accurately. (Ross) didn't wake up one day and say, "I'm going to become the best drug dealer in the world." He fell into it due to a lack of opportunities. I'm not condoning his choices. But his options were next to none. This is a man who was allowed to float through the school system uneducated. He aspired to be a tennis player. Where were the educators nurturing this man? Obviously he's not stupid. To reach that level of infamy in the drug world, you have to be good at numbers. You have to be good at math to handle that level of flow. No one saw that potential in him? Sad.

Like The Wire, this criticizes the drug war, but from a different angle.

They put kids in jail, but then the coke still makes it into the country. I don't understand it. The war should be about keeping the drugs out of the country. How do drugs still get in here if you're diligently fighting the war? And then you want to come after people in small communities? I'm not excusing anyone's actions. I'm not saying it's OK to sell drugs because you don't have a job. Wrong is wrong. Two wrongs don't make a right. But let's deal with the whole problem. Tax dollars shouldn't be going towards the low-level drug dealer on the corner, screwing up his life so he can't get a second chance in life. Less attention should be spent on that and more on where it's coming from.

'Lies' drive Bynes crazy, so she's suing magazines over and over again

If Amanda Bynes' Twitter feed is to be believed, she's ready to strike back at the tabloids that have been having a field day since her re-emergence last week.

"I am suing In Touch for lying about me entirely. They continue to write lies about me and it really hurts my feelings, because they are calling me insane and I'm actually really smart," Bynes writes. "I finally hired the best lawyer in New York City to sue In Touch magazine because they are utterly insane and lying to the public about me."

"I'm also suing Star magazine for doing the exact same thing," she adds. "The true definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over again and expecting different results. So I'm laughing all the way to the bank because I will sue them all. I will sue anyone in the media who lies about me and says I ever gave them an interview when I never gave literally any magazine a quote."

There is at least one publication she's cool with, though: "I am getting married and my boyfriend and I are going to be on the cover (of) People magazine," Bynes writes. "Because although they have made up things about me before, they will omit any error they've made."

A girl's got to have standards, after all.

Robert Downey Jr.

Sherlock 3 is on the way, along with Perry Mason

OK, so that whole Iron Man 4 thing — directed by Mel Gibson or not — isn't happening.

But don't worry, Robert Downey Jr. has more than one franchise. During a Reddit AMA, he confirmed a Sherlock Holmes film is on the way.

"Yes, we have Sherlock 3 in development. We want it to be the best of the series, so that's a pretty tall order," he says.

"Also, Perry Mason is a property I'm looking forward to developing further, going back to the 1931 book series ... similarly to what we did with the first two Sherlocks, mining the original material for things that are new."

OK, so now I don't know if he's joking again.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Bustin' ghosts with SNL stars, Parks & Rec or Feig faves?

It's really happening. Bridesmaids director Paul Feig confirmed on Twitter that he'll be directing a new Ghostbusters film with a female cast, co-written by Parks and Recreation scribe Katie Dippold.

Ever since the idea of an all-female Ghostbusters team was first floated earlier this summer, speculation has run rampant about who might fill out the roster. And who am I to stop something from running rampant?

Here are some ideas I think would be awesome.

The Feig all-stars: Melissa McCarthy, Kristen Wiig, Sandra Bullock and Rose Byrne.

McCarthy and Wiig seem like obvious choices — so obvious, in fact, that Bill Murray already name-checked them as what he'd like to see, along with Linda Cardellini and Emma Stone. (Hey, that's not a bad lineup either.)

But I'd round it out with McCarthy's Heat co-star, Bullock, and the Bridesmaids secret weapon, Byrne, who stole the show in Neighbors earlier this year.

The Parks & Rec Crew: Amy Poehler, Rashida Jones, Aubrey Plaza and Retta.

Given that Dippold is co-writing, it makes sense to look to Parks and Recreation for women to strap on the proton packs, and that show has a deep bench of female talent. We already know these four can play awkward co-workers, so why not throw some supernatural elements at them?

The SNL lineup: Kate McKinnon, Aidy Bryant, Vanessa Bayer and Cecily Strong.

These additions to the Saturday Night Live cast have been some of the strongest in years, so why not reward them with a big-screen blockbuster? If nothing else, I expect some "famous women audition for Ghostbusters III" impressions from these four sometime this season.

The TV grab-bag: Mindy Kaling, Casey Wilson, Teyonah Parris and Sarah Silverman.

Now I'm just playing favourites. What you want in a Ghostbusters team is a mix of strong, distinct personalities who won't drown each other out, and that's what these four have.

Kaling and Wilson are irresistible, and Silverman is always a commanding presence.

And Mad Men co-star Teyonah Parris shows some very impressive comic chops in the upcoming Dear White People and should be on your radar.

Hilary Duff

Don't ask Hilary Duff about childhood sweetie

Hilary Duff isn't such a fan of how Aaron Carter — whom she dated briefly when they were both child stars — keeps mentioning his undying love for her on Twitter and in interviews.

And she's definitely not a fan of Andy Cohen bringing it up. "I'm going to hurt you right now," she tells Cohen when he asks about it during a Watch What Happens Live chat. "I don't know. I don't know what to say about it. It was so many years ago. I literally haven't seen him in ... so, it's uncomfortable."

For Carter's part, he's 'fessed up to be something of a creeper when it comes to Duff. "I just need to shut up now about it. I think it's time," he told WENN.

Thicke loses game of love, and wife's penthouse view

It looks like Robin Thicke's whole game plan of naming a terrible album after Paula Patton and professing his love for her at every tour stop didn't pan out, as Patton has filed for divorce.

Not only that, but she's already moved on, according to Radar Online. Sources tell the website that Patton has pretty much moved new boyfriend Zak Waters into her Calabasas, Calif., home.

"Zak moved in with her a couple of weeks ago," a source says. "They are very happy together and he treats her how she deserves to be treated."

Waters, an L.A.-based musician, recently posted a photo to Instagram taken inside Patton's apartment with the caption, "My new view."

Alternative Thanksgiving Week. No one at your table likes turkey? Try Orange Roasted Chicken

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

Although a classic Thanksgiving tradition, roasting a whole turkey can be a bit of hassle — especially if you're not expecting to feed a crowd!

A roasted chicken is a nice alternative. This one feels special and occasion-worthy with orange wedges and a hit of Triple Sec or Grand Marnier.

Add delicious roasted veggies and you're in for a memorable meal.

Chicken

1. With the rack in the middle position, preheat the oven to 375 F (190 C).

2. In roasting pan, spread parsnips, onions and sage. Season with salt and pepper. Set aside.

3. Insert the segments of one orange in the chicken's cavity. Brush the chicken with the mustard and place over the vegetables. Drizzle with the orange juice, Triple Sec and olive oil. Season with salt and pepper. Place the remaining orange wedges around the chicken.

4. Roast 2 hours or until a meat thermometer inserted into the thigh without touching the bone reads 180 F (82 C). Place the chicken and vegetables in a warm serving dish. Skim the fat from the pan drippings and keep drippings for the sauce.

Sauce

1. In a large saucepan, combine all the ingredients and add the reserved pan drippings. Bring to a boil, stirring with a whisk, and reduce by half. Press one or two cooked orange wedges into the sauce. Strain and adjust the seasoning. Serve with the chicken. FOLLOW RICARDO ON SOCIAL MEDIA AND ON RICARDOCUISINE.COM OR SUBSCRIBE TO HIS MAGAZINE'S ENGLISH EDITION, WHICH LAUNCHED THIS SEPTEMBER!

Ingredients

Chicken

- 1 lb (454 g) parsnips, peeled and cut in half lengthwise
- 2 onions, sliced
- 3 sprigs fresh sage
- 2 oranges, unpeeled, each cut into 6 wedges
- 1 large chicken, about 5 lb (2.3 kg)
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) Dijon mustard
- Juice of 1 orange
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) Triple Sec or Grand Marnier
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) olive oil
- Salt and pepper

Sauce

- 4 cups (1 litre) chicken broth
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) honey
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) Triple Sec
- 2 tsp cornstarch

Wines to give turkey the bird

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Of all the meals you'll eat this year, Thanksgiving dinner is the most traditional. Or is it?

A poll of my friends found that while most will be taking the turkey and cranberry sauce route, some have given up cliché fare for a less mainstream main course.

That bodes well for this week's recipe. Ricardo flips the bird at turkey and suggests chicken glazed with an orange sauce.

It's the sauce that dictates your choice of wine. The up-front citrus influence of the orange liqueur will wreak havoc on anything too dry, too full or too oaky.

If you prefer a red, go with a light-bodied pinot noir from California or Chile. When it comes to white, think Riesling from Germany or one from a local vineyard in your province — it's grown just about everywhere in Canada.

I like Chardonnay. The Banrock Station 2013 Unwooded Chardonnay ($11.99 to $12.99) from Australia sees no barrel aging, and its bright, lime, melon and pineapple flavours will make for a happy holiday no matter what you're serving. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. ## Prosecutors want Peterson's bond revoked

Minnesota Vikings star Adrian Peterson should be arrested anew after admitting during his court appearance on a child abuse charge that he had "smoked a little weed" while out on bond, Texas prosecutors said Thursday.

In a court motion, the Montgomery County District Attorney's Office said Peterson allegedly told a worker conducting his urinalysis exam during a Wednesday court appearance that he had smoked marijuana.

Peterson is currently free on a $15,000 bond after he was indicted last month on a felony charge of injury to a child for using a wooden switch to discipline his four-year-old son.

Flames' Bennett gets bad news

The Calgary Flames say 18-year-old centre Sam Bennett needs shoulder surgery and will be out four to six months.

The Flames drafted Bennett fourth overall in this year's NHL draft.

He was limited to three pre-season games and missed parts of main camp because of a groin injury coming out of rookie camp, which was followed by his shoulder troubles.

What's old is new again for Riders

Retired no more.

Quarterback returns to rescue Saskatchewan's ailing offence at age 41

The Saskatchewan Roughriders have reached into the past to answer their questions at quarterback by coaxing Kerry Joseph out of retirement.

But at 41 years old, it remains to be seen whether the CFL's Most Outstanding Player in 2007 has anything left to help the team's struggling offence.

Joseph ended his brief retirement, signed with the Riders on Thursday and immediately joined the team at practice.

"It's a good feeling," he said following his first workout with the Riders. "It's been a while. For years I have been on the other side, so to get back into that locker-room just gives you that burst of energy to know that there's some great things going on here."

Joseph received the phone call on Oct. 4, his birthday, from Riders head coach Corey Chamblin.

He didn't jump at the opportunity right away.

"It wasn't an easy decision," Joseph said, adding that he wrestled with it for a couple of days before he chose to rejoin his former team.

"It just felt right. I think if it wasn't here I wouldn't have done it, to be honest with you. I think coming back here in the green and white and knowing what they have established and the opportunities that lay ahead, that's why (I came back)."

Joseph joins a crowd at quarterback that includes Tino Sunseri, Seth Doege and Keith Price. Sunseri has started in place of the injured Darian Durant in three of the Riders' past four games, with Doege starting the most recent contest.

The Riders have won just once during that span and take their 9-5 record to Montreal for a showdown on Monday with the Alouettes (5-8).

Joseph is expected to dress for that game but it's unlikely he'll see any snaps under centre, despite "feeling good" after his first full practice.

Devils open season by burning Flyers' wings

Dainus Zubrus scored the go-ahead goal in the third period and Michael Cammalleri had two goals, leading the New Jersey Devils to a season-opening 6-4 win over the Philadelphia Flyers on Thursday night.

Michael Ryder, Adam Henrique, and Patrick Elias also scored for the Devils.

Claude Giroux had a goal and Wayne Simmonds scored twice to help the Flyers rally from a three-goal deficit. Vincent Lecavalier also scored for the Flyers, who lost 2-1 in their season opener Wednesday night against Boston.

The Devils blew 3-0 and 4-3 leads before taking the lead for good on Zubrus' goal early in the third.

New Jersey's Jaromir Jagr had an assist on Cammalleri's first goal for his 1,756th career point, sixth on the NHL's career scoring list. He also assisted on Cammalleri's empty-netter in the final seconds.

Davis will likely miss ALCS games

Forced to sit. Oriole slugger still has five games left on suspension for amphetamine use

Suspended slugger Chris Davis won't be playing in the AL Championship Series for the Baltimore Orioles.

Manager Buck Showalter said Thursday that Davis will be omitted from the 25-man roster, which must be submitted on Friday morning before the Orioles host the Kansas City Royals in Game 1.

Davis was suspended for 25 games by Major League Baseball on Sept. 12 for testing positive for Adderall, a banned amphetamine.

His suspension included the final 17 games of the regular season and Baltimore's three-game sweep of Orioles shortstop J.J. Hardy says he's close to reaching an agreement on a contract extension.

Hardy's current contract expires at the end of this season. He has earned $21 million over the past three years.

"We're not going to play with 24 (men on the roster) for five games," Showalter said.

The only way Davis could play if the ALCS reaches six games is if he replaces an injured teammate on the roster.

Showalter said he would re-assess the situation if the Orioles advance to the World Series.

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

What seemed a sensible idea yesterday may now appear silly but don't give up on it. In there is the germ of a good plan and it can be made to work if you refuse to be disheartened.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You must be decisive today, especially on the work front where the right word in the right ear at the right time could open doors that have been closed for too long.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

According to the planets you are in danger of making a simple situation more complicated than it needs to be. Let your inner voice guide you.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

It's vital you are honest with yourself about your position but you also need to be more optimistic. Your financial situation is nowhere near as bleak as you've been painting it.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You have been experiencing a lot of emotional ups and downs of late and need to find a balance between being concerned about personal issues and laughing at them.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Today's cosmic picture signifies that a practical problem needs a practical solution, so don't let personal feelings get in the way.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Today and over the weekend you need to either throw yourself into a serious project or leave it completely alone and go off and do something fun.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Take time out to ponder the decision you are about to make. Is it really what you want? If you are not completely convinced you are doing the right thing then maybe you should wait.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

The nicer you are to someone today, the more they will take liberties. The planets warn you won't get anywhere by appealing to the better side of this person's nature.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Today's Sun-Jupiter link means you may find it hard to show restraint when dealing with matters of a business nature, but that's OK. Usually you are totally in control of yourself, so go to the other extreme.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Something you have been dreaming about for weeks, months, maybe even years is about to become a reality.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You won't escape a difficult situation by running away from it, so be brave and face up to whatever emotional challenge is in front of you.
